

Call for Papers - The Journal of Global Drug Policy and Practice

The Journal of Global Drug Policy and Practice, <http://www.globaldrugpolicy.org/>, is an international peer-reviewed journal with the goal of bridging the information gap on drug policy issues between the medical and scientific communities, policymakers, practitioners, and the lay public. Our intended readership includes clinicians, clinical researchers, policymakers, prevention specialists, and other persons interested in understanding drug policy issues or in providing drug policy recommendations. The Journal of Global Drug Policy and Practice is a joint effort of the Institute on Global Drug Policy and the International Scientific and Medical Forum on Drug Abuse.

Possible subject areas include, but are not limited to:

- Current research on any area of substance abuse
- Substance abuse and the elderly (or other demographic groups)
- The pharmacology and toxicity of marijuana vs. alcohol
- The impact of media on substance abuse
- The social effects of marijuana legalization
- The environmental impact of substance abuse
- Demand reduction vs. harm reduction
- Reducing the incidence of substance abuse: historical examples and future possibilities
- Substance use and co-morbidities
- Physiological and clinical aspects of the new synthetic drugs
- Treatment strategies for alcohol vs. marijuana
- The impact of marijuana vs. alcohol on the brain and body
- Alcohol vs. marijuana intoxication
- The metabolism, kinetics of marijuana ingestion: comparing and contrasting inhalation (smoking vs. vaporization), oral ingestion (solid food, tea)
- Subtle effects of marijuana on performance and how they differ from alcohol based performance effects

The guidelines for authors can be found at <http://www.globaldrugpolicy.org/Authors.html>. You may write a new article, republish work that is previously published, or even a combination. All manuscripts must be prepared in English. To be considered for publication in the next journal edition, a letter of intent is recommended and should include the working title or subject, plus the anticipated submission date.

Please submit your letter of intent and paper, via e-mail, to the editor at the following address: kbelanger@dfaf.org

*Please circulate this Call for Papers among your colleagues.